

CUBBERLEY, Ellwood Patterson, 1868-1941. Indiana born. Univ. Ind., A.M., 1891; Columbia Univ., A.M., 1902, Ph.D., 1905; Iowa, LL.D., 1922; Indiana, LL.D., 1934. ~~XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX~~ Teacher, 1891-1917. At Stanford Univ.: Prof. Ed. and Head of Dept., 1898-1917; Dean, Sch. Ed., 1917-1933; Dean Emeritus, 1933-1941. Two of his high school teachers "made him want to learn, and to learn well." Dr. David Starr Jordan made him want to go to college, and inspired him to become a great educator. Friendly and impressive. Dynamic and distinguished in both teaching and administration. Editor of Riverside Textbook Series. Influential author and conductor of educational surveys. His books include "Rural Life and Education," the purpose of which was to secure better educational advantages for those living on farms. Fuller details in the Julian A. McPhee article, above pp. -- R. W. Stimson.

Cubberley